What is the definition of telework?

Tell Me

Telework is a flexible arrangement in which a supervisor, with appropriate Vice Chancellor approval, directs or permits an employee to perform some of their job duties away from their primary workplace, so long as they meet the same performance expectations and any other approved and agreed upon terms.

Related FAQs

- What fields are required on the form?
- If my position is approved for teleworking or remote work, do I need to take the training annually or just once?
- What training is required for employees to be eligible to telework or remote work?
- What training is required for supervisors to approve employee telework/remote work agreements?
- Why did the telework/remote work request get denied?